COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY JULY 29, 1914.

NUMBER 39

GONE TO REST

Mrs. Mollie Hancock, Who Was the Beloved Wife of Judge Junius Hancock, Crosses to the Other Side.

FUNERAL SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

Last Tuesday forenoon, at 10:30 o'clock, one of Columbia's most lovable women, one who was a devoted wife and an affectionate mother—Mrs. Mollie Hancock, wife of Judge Junius Hancock, passed peacefully away after a long illness. She was a daughter of George and Bettie Watson Damron, and was born and reared on Green river in Adair county, and was 55 years, 11 months and 15 days old. When quite a young woman she was married to Mr. Junius Hancock, and shortly after their union became residents of Columbia where they lived happily until God saw fit to remove the wife and mother to a better and purer world. When quite a girl the deceased made a profession of her faith in the lowly Nazarine, united with the Christian Church and was an active member until the final dissolution. It was here that her children were born and reared, the living ones being W. F. Hancock, Mrs. Geo. W. Lowe, Mr. S. N. Hancock, Mrs. W. M. Wilson, Mr. Geo. W. Hancock, and Mr. Henry Hancock, all of whom and their father were with her when the summons came.

Is there anything more trying for a husband, sons and daughters to bear than to breathlessly watch at the bedside of a loving companion and a most affectionate mother as her life is rapidly passing into the beyond? But when those who have been so sorely bereft take into consideration the devoted Christian walk of their dear one, and remembering the promises to the faithful, they should console themselves, knowing that companion and mother is now with Wallace and little Neil, and if they continue to walk in the straight and narrow path which leads to the celestial city, after awhile they will all be together in that heavenly home where there is neither sorrow nor separation.

This town where Mrs. Hancock spent so many years of her life, where she was the friend of every body and where every body respected her for her many Christian virtues, keenly feels the loss. For years her husband conducted a hotel in this place, and the writer has often seen the foot-sore traveler, without means, standing at the cook-room door, but he never left without having his hunger appeased, this good woman being ever ready to hand out a plate of victuals. She possessed a most lovable disposition, never denied her children and was happy when they were pleased. They have lost their dearest friend, but by following the precepts of the Book of Books they will again see her face, for we are taught that we shall know as we were known.

May the Giver of all that is good comfort the husband, the children and the sister, Miss Sallie Damron, who had not been separated from the deceased, the two dearly loving one another, since their girlhood days.

The funeral services were conducted at the Christian church Wednesday afternoon by her pastor, Eld. Z. T. Williams who paid a touching tribute to the memory of the departed in the presence of a very large congregation. Other local ministers were present and assisted.

Services over the remains were borne to the city cemetery and there deposited to await the resurrection morn.

There were many floral designs, home grown, the only kind the deceased desired to be used.

Christian Unity was manifested in Columbia last Wednesday night, when representatives of all the denominations of the town met in the Methodist church in the capacity of a union prayer meeting. There were a number of interesting talks and the true spirit of Christianity seemed to permeate the whole congregation. We believe that such meetings are calculated to do much good, and if union gatherings were held oftener in our opinion they would be largely attended at each meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Myers gave a large party of young people a trip to Griffin Springs last Wednesday in their automobiles. Their kindness was highly appreciated, the trip being most delightful. The party carried refreshments and dined on the lawn.

Resolutions:

Columbia, Ky June 8th, 1914.

The special committee on education, appointed at the District Conference, report the following:

The Columbia district is to be congratulated on the fact that the Louisville Conference has founded the Lindsey-Wilson Training School in its bounds—the profits of which cannot be fully estimated—and whereas the past year has been the most satisfactory in its history:

We believe the entire district with full consciousness of its importance should rally to its support with liberal contributions for its enlargement and with united effort to secure the largest possible patronage.

We call special attention to the fact that the Conference Board of Education has undertaken to build a large and commodious Boys' Dormitory, a three-story brick and stone building, with modern conveniences, and with other improvements at a cost of over fourteen thousand dollars; and note with pleasure that the citizens of Columbia have subscribed over two thousand dollars of this amount.

Resolved, therefore: First, that the district pledge a renewed interest in the School and we hereby pledge ourselves, pastors and laymen, to take collections and subscriptions to assist in paying for this building.

Resolved; Second, that the pastors be requested to read this report to their congregations and to take collections in cash and subscriptions to be reported at the earliest possible time.

Resolved; Third, That a suitable frame be provided by the L. W. T. S. for the preservation of the names and amounts contributed by each individual church in the district.

A Quiet Wedding.

On Monday evening, the 20th inst., Mr. Veston Holt and Miss Emma Bragg, both of Jamestown, were married at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McCandless, this city. Rev. O. P. Bush, pastor of the Baptist Church, officiating. Only close relatives witnessed the ceremony. The bride was reared near Gradyville, this county, but for sometime she has been making her home with a sister Mrs. Walter McKinney, Jamestown. Mrs. McCandless, this place, is also a sister. The groom is a son of the late A. H. Holt, who conducted a hotel in Jamestown during his lifetime. The couple have many friends in their home town, all of whom extend their best wishes.

Mr. W. E. Bradshaw, who has been a very efficient bookkeeper for the Cumberland Grocery Company, Burnside, Ky., was here last Thursday and informed the News that he would go into the milling business at McKinney, Ky., in a very few days. Mr. Bradshaw is a son of Mr. G. A. Bradshaw, who lives at Montpelier, and he was born and reared in Adair county. His many friends throughout Adair wish him success in his new venture. He is a young man of good business qualifications, popular with his acquaintances, hence there is no reason why he should not succeed. The style of the milling firm will be McKinney Milling Co. J. D. Vaughan will be President and H. F. Martin Vice-President, Mr. Bradshaw Secretary and Treasurer.

All parties who have claims against the estate of Mrs. Fannie Walker, deceased, are requested to present the same in proper form to R. F. Paull, Administrator. 38-37.

R. K. Young sold to Milt Smith, of Burkesville, 1 yearling Shetland pony for $90.00. One six year old Shetland pony for $125.00. Mr. Young still has six more beautiful spotted ones on his farm 1 1/2 miles from town.

A large party of young people, living out of town and in town, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Rowe last Tuesday evening. It was a happy occasion, one that will not soon be forgotten. It was given in honor of Miss Creel Nell.

Hon. Rollin Hurt's friends in all the adjacent counties are earnestly requested to be at the polls next Saturday and vote for him.

You Did It.

Who started the vile lie upon its way?

Why, you did! You heartless assassin of reputations! You chanced upon the sweet morsel of untruth. You rolled it around under your tongue, cunningly embellished it and then passed it on to some wretch as heartless and depraved as yourself, who added a quota of lies and dealt it out to an ever widening circle of thoughtless fools who did their duty as they saw it. You much-raker! You creature of the slime, you were the very center of this concentric circles of slander that have widened and enlarged until they have reached remote cities and towns.

Why did you do it? This is why, because you are a favorite child of the Devil, a Prince of Liars, and you wish to convince people that others are just as bad as you. Had you not passed that lie on, you would have choked. If you had not retouched it and colored it, you would have died of jaundice.

You are a member of the church and you are always ready to fly into the face of anyone who says aught against your belief, but the spirit of Christ has never entered your heart nor the sermon on the Mount addressed itself to your understanding.

If your remarks could have been confined to those who know you they would not have hurt so much, for what you say about your acquaintances cannot be worse than what your family says about you. But remarks cannot be confined to circumscribed limits.

A young girl takes a position as a stenographer. Who smirched her reputation? You, you harpy! If you did not do it with a blatant lie you did it with a shrug of the shoulder or a toss of the head. Why did you do it? She is better than you. She is self-sustaining, independent, clear eyed, thoughtful, chaste. And you? You are a slattern evil minded shrew, dependent upon some one-gallused ignoramus for your victuals and clothes.

The above article was selected, but is it not a true picture of some slimy men?

Prisoners Freed.

The following item appeared in the Courier Journal a few days ago:

To take the insolvent debtors' oath Jasper Bunch and William Dix, both of Columbia, Ky., were brought to Louisville yesterday from the jail in Elizabethtown, by Deputy United States Marshal J. R. Howell. Each was sentenced to thirty days imprisonment and fined $100 on a charge of bootlegging. They served the jail sentence in the Hardin county jail. After taking the oath they were released.

Rev. Chesterfield Turner will be ordained a minister in the Baptist Church the second Sunday in August. The name of the minister who will have charge of the ordination services will be given later. Rev. Turner has been authorized to preach for some time, but he has not been ordained. This service over, Rev. Turner will be in position to perform the ordinance of Baptism and to administer the Lord's supper. The services will be held at the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Carson Falkenberg, who was in Columbia last Thursday, informed the News that the work of grading and rocking the public square at Jamestown had commenced. He also stated that the property holders of the town were considering concreting in front of their residences. This would be a move in the right direction. It would not only make the homes more inviting, but would increase their value.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ingram have removed from Columbia to their farm, one mile from town, which Mr. Ingram recently purchased of the Garrison Bros., located on Russell Springs Roads. The Garrison family have removed to Columbia and are occupying the residence vacated by Mr. Ingram.

Rev. O. P. Bush is assisting Rev. C. Turner in a series of meetings now in progress at Friendship church, Taylor county. The series will continue ten days or two weeks. The people of the neighborhood are invited to attend the meetings.

Garrison Bros. have removed their stock of goods from the West corner of the square to the brick building in the north-east corner of the square, owned by Mr. J. T. Page and formerly occupied by Mr. Henry Ingram.

This is the last issue of the News before the primary, and again we urge all Democrats in this Appellate district to go to the polls and vote for Judge Rollin Hurt. Stamp in the cross opposite his name.

A HEAVY LOSS.

Campbellsville Visited by a Destructive Fire, and a Number of Business Houses Go Up in Flames.

WATER BRIGADE DID WHAT IT COULD.

Our neighboring town, Campbellsville, sustained another great loss by fire last Tuesday night, and the people of Columbia are in sympathy with the losers. An eye witness states that at one time it looked like the whole of Main street was doomed to destruction. J. T. Gowdy's livery stable, W. I. Meader's residence and the Methodist church had a close call. A dispatch from Campbellsville gives the following account of the conflagration.

Fire, which broke out shortly after 11 o'clock last night and burned for about four hours, destroyed a large part of the business section of Campbellsville, causing a loss of between $70,000 and $80,000.

The chief loser by the flames is G. H. Gowdy, one of the wealthiest citizens of Campbellsville, who owned nearly all the buildings destroyed and who had no insurance.

The buildings burned included D. B. Edwards' grocery, the Campbellsville Motor Garage, Hodgins' barber shop, D. J. Skaggs' grocery; T. E. Hoskins, dry goods; the Campbellsville Telephone Exchange; Hoard & Hall, hardware, and J. Meader's residence. Some damage was done to other buildings. No one was injured, but the scarcity of water made it difficult to fight the flames.

Campbellsville's new water works are now in process of construction, but the plant is not near enough to completion to be used, in connection with a fire.

The News Journal Campbellsville gives the losses, as near as it can obtain them, about as follows:

T. E. Hoskins & Co., loss on building and stock of goods, $10,000; insurance $7,000.

B. J. Skaggs, loss on goods, about $2,000; insurance $1,000. A new stock of goods has just been received.

Tom Hodgins had the good fortune to have about all of his furniture, etc., removed. The bath plant fixtures and some articles were burned, but the loss is covered by insurance.

D. B. Edwards, in whose place was also a stock of paints, window glass, etc., belonging to Edwards & Phillips lost about $1,500; insurance on groceries, $600, on paints, $400.

Hord & Hall, loss on hardware stock and blacksmith shop, about $3,000; insurance $2,200.

Campbellsville Telephone Co., located over Hord & Hall, loss $4,500; insurance $1,000.

The Campbellsville Motor Car Co., removed its machines and other valuables, with the exception of about $50 worth of things.

The buildings occupied by Tom Hodgins, B. J. Skaggs, Hord & Hall, Campbellsville Motor Car Co., and the vacant room, known as the Gowdy Block, was the property of Geo. H. Gowdy and was a total loss to him, as he carried no insurance. It is estimated that his loss will be about $15,000.

The Darkey Wedding

Is only little more than two weeks off. It is old-fashioned and a good time is assured all. Every body is invited to attend the wedding supper just after the wedding. It will be Ice Cream down stairs at court-house. Lots of good music.

We learn from Mr. J. W. Marshall, Glenville, that Mr. Zach Samuels, who has been confined to his room for several months, improves very slowly. The immediate cause of his confinement was the result of an accident, but the injuries received at the time have disappeared, and rheumatism set up. Mr. Samuels' many friends would rejoice to see him out again, as he is a good neighbor and a fine citizen.

A full force of brick layers are now at work on the boy's dormitory at Lindsey-Wilson and in ten days the brick work will be completed. Carpenters will push the wood-work and finish the building as quickly as possible.

Stevenson & Sandusky have installed a coal oil engine and are now running their roller mill with that power. They are perfectly delighted with the change from wood to oil.

Two John Rogers.

Two or three weeks ago a notice appeared in this paper in which was stated that John Rogers had purchased some goods from W. I. Ingram, one of our merchants, and gave a check on the Greensburg Deposit Bank for the amount purchased, being $11.50. Since the above notice appeared we find that there is another John Rogers, who lives in this county, a gentleman of honor, honest and dependable under and all circumstances and fearing that the aforesaid notice might have led some one to believe that the latter was the one who gave the worthless check, we cheerfully call the attention of our readers to the difference in the men. The John Rogers who gave the check is a young married man and lives on Butler's Fork, of Russell Creek, while the latter, Mr. John H. Rogers, lives on Sulphur Fork.

Tuning, Regulating and repairing pianos and organs. First-class work. 39-14. J. W. Hicks, Columbia, Ky.

Doings of the Lightning.

Last Sunday afternoon while a heavy rain was falling over the county, lightning struck a large barn on the farm of Mr. Brack Massie, setting it on fire. There were about thirty barrels of corn, quite a lot of hay, farm machinery besides the barn, destroyed. No insurance on the barn, but a small amount on the feed. Killed a horse for Alex Bohannon.

In this town, Will Dohoney was standing in Mr. L. L. Eubank's porch. He was knocked down, but not hurt. Mr. John Bennett, who is connected with the Adair Spoke Company, was standing at Goff Bros' livery. He was also considerably shocked, one of his arms hurting him for sometime after the shock.

For Sale.

Sixty-acre farm, on Gradyville road, one and a half miles from Columbia. Forty acres in cultivation, twenty-five acres in meadow. Convenient to town and Graded School. An ideal opportunity for a cheap home. On the farm is a reasonably good house, two barns and a good well.

Also in the town of Columbia two cottages, conveniently located. One is a six room building, the other containing five rooms. Will make a sacrifice for quick sales.

Hugh Richardson, Columbia, Ky. 38-14.

Leg Broken.

Late last Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Fred McLean met with a very serious accident. He was penciling the chimney on the two-story part of his mother's residence when the scaffold gave way and Mr. McLean fell to the roof of the ell and from there to the ground. The big bone in his left leg was broken between the ankle and knee and he was otherwise injured. The distance from where he was at work to the ground is about twenty-two feet, and had not the ell of the building broke the force of the fall Mr. McLean would have, in all probability, been fatally hurt.

A local physician reduced the fracture.

For Sale.

I have a stock of goods, store-house and lots, good residence, barns, etc., located at Merricac, Taylor county, all well watered. Also a farm of 95 acres, 30 acres in cultivation, 20 acres of new ground. Also one farm of 200 acres, mostly unimproved, for sale. The store-house is a splendid stand to sell goods, and the lots are so situated as to make them well suited for a person who wants to handle stock, and sell goods. F. H. Durhan, Columbia, Ky. 37-44. or Merricac, Ky.

Mr. Jesse Murrell and Miss Flora Hutchison entertained a party of young friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Flowers last Thursday night. Refreshments were served. On the same evening Miss Sallie Coffey threw open her parlor doors, and a happy throng gathered at her home.

For Sale.

A mare 6 years old, strictly sound and safe for ladies and children to drive. Not afraid of autos. W. L. Grady, Gradyville, Ky. 38-24.

Shooting Affray on Rolling Fork.

In an affray which occurred just below the old Guthrie Mill on the Rolling Fork in Marion county last Friday evening, Clarence Hall was dangerously wounded, and his brother, Walter Hall, was painfully wounded, and a young man by the name of Cooley was killed. All were the victims of Cooley's gun. It seems that the parties, together with some several more persons, were fishing on the creek, when Walter Hall, in fun, ducked Cooley in the river. This made Cooley mad and upon reaching the bank of the river he secured his revolver and opened fire upon Walter Hall, but instead shot Clarence Hall twice in the body, once on the right side and once near the heart. Both bullets passed through the body of Clarence Hall and hit Walter Hall who was in direct range of the gun Cooley was using. After Cooley awakened to the fact of what he had done, he then turned his revolver upon himself and shot himself through the train.—Stanford Journal.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because that your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengla, Plainfield, N. J., writes: "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers and Paul Drug Co. Ad.

Children Dying.

It gives one a shock to learn that in this country of ours there died last year 3,000,000 children under one year of age, and that shock is made the more painful when he further learns that at least one-half of the number would have lived but for the ignorance of the parents, and unsanitary conditions. Evidently there is great need of enlightenment and of instruction in hygiene. But is not the excessive infant mortality that alone distresses one.

To it must be added the further fact that multitudes of children are born into the world lame or otherwise defective mentally and physically, and that the majority of such children are raised amidst surroundings and under conditions that prevent or retard recovery.

Has Your Child Worms?

Most children do. A Coated, Furred Tongue; Strong Breath; Stomach Pains, Cries under the Eyes; Pale, Sallow Complexion; Nervous, Fretful Grinding of teeth. Tossing in Sleep; Peculiar Dreams—any one of these indicate Child has Worms. Get a box of Kickapoo Worm-Killer at once. It kills the Worms—the cause of your child's condition. Is Laxative and aids Nature to expel the Worms. Supplied in candy form. Easy for children to take. 25c. Recommended by Paul Drug Co. Ad.

After the State Primary.

According to the gossip from Frankfort, immediately after the Senatorial primary on August 1st there will be a number of announcements for State offices to be voted for next year. Auditor Henry M. Bosworth, Attorney General James Garnett and Commissioner of Agriculture J. W. Newman are expected to be candidates for Governor, Thomas S. Rhea, the present State treasurer, is said to have been looking with eager eyes toward the juicy plums in the Auditor's office and he, it is stated, will certainly be a candidate to succeed Auditor Bosworth, while Claude Terrell, ex-speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives, will, it is predicted, become a candidate for Treasurer.—Lexington Leader.

Causes of Stomach Troubles.

Ledentary habits, lack of out door exercise; insufficient mastication of food, constipation, a torpid liver, worry and anxiety, overeating, partaking of food and drink, not suited to your age and occupation. Correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets and you will soon be well again. For sale by all dealers and Paul Drug Co. Ad.

Freak Insurance.

It has become quite the fashion lately to have some part of the body insured against accident. An American actress, for example, who was recently appearing at a London theater, insured her eyes, upon whose power of fascination she relied very largely for her effects, for $30,000.

Similarly, Caruso has his voice heavily insured, whilst the hands of Paderewski, the great pianist, are said to be insured for something like $250,000. Many artists, of course, insure their hands, and not long ago a noted scientist, on account of the heavy strain imposed by research work on his eyes, decided to insure his vision.

Countless "freak" insurances also have been effected. To take a case in point—a certain erstwhile society beauty, terrified lest her nose, which is at once her pride and crowning glory, should be damaged in a motor accident, has for ten years past regularly been paying an extravagant premium in order that she may, at least, get some compensation if a "road-hog" or unforeseen occurrence mar her beauty.

Stops Neuralgia—Kills Pain

Sloan's Liniment gives instant relief from Neuralgia or Sciatica. It goes straight to the painful part—soothes the nerves and stops the pain. It is also good for Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Chest Pains and Sprains. You don't need to rub—it penetrates. Mr. J. R. Swinger, Louisville, Ky., writes: "I suffered with quite a severe Neuralgia Headache for four months without any relief. I used Sloan's Liniment for two or three nights and I haven't suffered with my head since." Get a bottle today. Keep in the house all the time for pains and all hurts. 25c, 50c, and $1.00. Must Mark Unused Ballots.

One of the provisions in the new election law is that all ballots unused in any election instead of being burned, as formerly, must be marked by the election officers with a stamp of a certain size and returned to the county clerk in each county with the stub of the ballot book. Each ballot must be marked by the word "unused" that remains after an election. While this will require a little more work on the part of the election officers than under the old way, it will prevent a great deal of crookedness in elections.

The Best Medicine in the World

"My little girl had dysentery very bad. I thought she would die. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured her, and I can truthfully say that I think it is the best medicine in the world," writes Mrs. William Orvis, Clare, Mich. For sale by all dealers and Paul Drug Co. Ad.

Last week, Clarence LeBus, of Fayette county, sold to Jonas Weil, 18 head of fancy beeves, averaging 1,527 pounds at $8.75 a hundred, or $133.55 for each animal. Mr. LeBus also sold to same buyer, from his Harrison county farm, 50 head of cattle weighing an average of 1,534 pounds, at $8.50 a hundred, or an average of $130.99 a head. Mr. LeBus also shipped from Fayette 29 head of hogs of his own feeding, that averaged 294 pounds a head, which brought him $8.15 a hundred, or $23.96 a head. He also shipped to the Cincinnati market a bunch of 906 head of lambs of his own raising, that average 72 pounds and brought the handsome price of $8.82 a hundred, or a total of $5,723.21 for the bunch.

Ultra-Violet Rays Kill Germs.

Niagara Falls will have the first municipal ultra-violet ray sterilization plant in this country says the Engineering Record. Contract negotiations were consummated June 5 for a 35-lamp installation.

Mercury vapor lamps, protruding into channels through water with flow, are to be used.

The ultra-violet rays from these lamps have the power to kill the bacteria in the water.

There will be seven lamps in each of five concrete canals, although it is estimated that 25 lamps only will be required to handle the capacity of the plant, 16,000,000 gallons daily.

The cost of the canals and lamp installations will be $19,800, while the city will erect a building and transformers to change the current from alternating to direct, at a cost of $2,200.

Our Country.

Fellow citizens, what is this country? Is it the soil on which we tread? Is it the gathering of familiar faces? Is it our luxury and pomp and pride? Nay, more than these. Is it power and might and majesty alone? No, our country is more, far more than all these. The country which demands our love, our courage, our devotion, our heart's blood, is more than all these. Our country is the tradition of our mothers; our country is past renown; our country is present pride and power; our country is future hope and destiny; our country is greatness, glory, truth, constitutional liberty—above all, freedom forever! These are the watchwords under which we fight, and we will shout them out till the stars appear in the sky, in the stormiest hour of battle.—Edward D. Baker.

Beautiful Gem.

In all the English language we do not recall a more beautiful gem than the will of Mrs. Ambrose Clayton, who died here a short while ago. Whoever can read it unmoved has indeed a heart of stone. Clip it out, and place it in your scrapbook. It is worth a place there:

"In the name of God, Amen. I being of sound mind bequeath to my children all my prayers for their salvation. I bequeath to them all the results of a lifetime's toil; I bequeath to them the christian religion, which has been a comfort to me, and I hope may be a solace for them. I bequeath to them a hope of reunion when the partings of life are over. Share and share alike may they have eternal riches. I bequeath to them the wish that they may avoid my errors and copy anything that may have been worthy. In the name of God who made me, and the Christ who redeemed me, I make this my last will and testament. Witness all ye hosts of Heaven; witness time; witness eternity; Signed, sealed and delivered in this my dying hour."

You walked down into a basement, which at first sight resembled nothing so much as one of the lower deck on a large liner. Ranged along the walls were what appeared to be a number of safes, but they were doors opening into small rooms, into each of which a particular portion of Mr. Morgan's collection had been brought. There were rooms for English silver, for porcelain, and for half a dozen other objets d'art. No one who was ever fortunate enough to be shown round by Mr. Morgan himself can forget the experience.

One on Kentucky.

If there is one thing a commercial traveler dislikes more than another it is elaborate ceremony, and if the spirit of his profession is in him he generally finds some way to let his prejudices be known, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. One evening a traveling salesman from Cincinnati, happened to sit down at a hotel table in Frankfort, Ky., in company with half a dozen State Legislators, who talked with excessive formality. It was "Will the gentlemen from Hardin do this?" and "Does the gentleman from Franklin want that?" the ordinary form of direct address being carefully eschewed.

For nearly ten minutes the commercial traveler suffered in silence. Then he turned to the waiter and said in a deep oratorical tones:

"Will the gentleman from Ethiopia please pass the butter? The remedy was effectual.

Does his conduct in reference to that bill justify his boast of being the dauntless champion of the people against the trusts? Does he, in his vaunted crusades against them, make a distinction against a Kentucky trust, which has great political influence here, and as a Pennsylvania or New Jersey trust, which have none? Isn't it evident to the people of Kentucky that he is undertaking to mislead them, and is trying to raise a false issue to divert their attention from his own record, which shows that he is the servant of the greatest and cruelest trust of all?

My position on this subject is well known. I believe it is conceded that I have had some important part in the enactment of the temperance legislation in this state, in the better enforcement of the laws regulating the liquor traffic and in the increase of taxation on that business. Under laws which I actively helped to pass, the greatest part of Kentucky has become dry territory. I helped to pass, and as governor, signed the County Unit law of 1906; and in the Democratic convention of 1911, I supported the County Unit plank in the platform, which demanded an amendment to the law by extending the county unit to all cities, and the general assembly of 1912 passed that amendment. I have fought for the principle of giving to each county the right to decide by a vote of the people whether or not alcoholic liquors should be sold in the county. I favored the increase of the saloon license in the revenue bill of 1906, which brought additional revenue into the treasury. I also favored the gallon tax upon rectified whisky proposed in the same bill; and when the lobby of the rectifiers succeeded in defeating that tax, I called a special session of the general assembly to pass it, and it was passed putting one cent and a quarter on each gallon. That tax has been yielding each year to the state treasury about fifty thousand dollars. I favor the Webb law passed by congress, and if I had been a member of that body, either in the house or the senate, when the bill was up for consideration, I would have remained in Washington at my post of duty and voted for it, and if I am elected to the senate, and it should become necessary to pass an amendment to that law, or additional legislation, in furtherance of the principle of allowing each state to protect its dry territory from the invasion of the liquor traffic, I shall favor such a measure, and I shall never be found dodging that or any other question.

Two Measures Approved.

I cordially approve the two measures just recently passed by our general assembly, one known as the Hampton bill, and the other as the Frost bill. The first is intended to make more effective the remedy given by the Webb law; and the second, to complete the operation of the County Unit law, so that an election under that law can be called by twenty-five per cent of the voters of the entire county, instead of requiring twenty-five per cent in each precinct of the county.

While I was governor my attention was called to the fact that the law, which required all saloons to close on Sundays, was regularly and flagrantly violated in the city of Louisville. There was no ordinary power in the hands of the governor to compel its enforcement, and the most I could do was to request officials there to enforce it. My requests were not regarded; but in the course of time the court of appeals decided that the election of 1905 was void by reason

WON ON HIS BLUFF

How an American Consul Brought a Dictator to Terms.

A THREAT AND A SURPRISE.

The Venezuelan Despot to Whom Uncle Sam's Official Had Issued a Comic Opera Ultimatum First Got on His High Horse and Then Stepped Down.

A great many years ago Phil Hanna was consul at La Guayra, Venezuela, when a little revolution broke out. A military mortar in command of the town announced himself dictator and, needing money to carry on his activities, seized a bunch of American, English and German residents in the place and locked them in the town jail. They were informed that they would be released when they had made certain cash contributions to the revolutionary war chest.

Hanna was notified of the situation, and, looking up the consulate and leaving an extra sized American flag flying, he marched up to the headquarters of the dictator.

"Mr. Dictator," said Hanna, "I note that you have locked up a number of Americans. Permit me to introduce myself as the American consul."

The dictator asked what interest that fact had for him.

"It signifies that I am here in the name of my government to demand that these Americans be released instantly," replied Hanna.

"Can't do a thing for you," replied the general. "They've been told that when they cough up they'll be turned loose."

"They'll be turned loose without coughing and without delay," retorted Hanna. "I desire, in the name of my government, to say that if the Americans and all the European citizens whom you have locked up are not released by 6 o'clock this afternoon I shall proceed to shell the town."

"To shell—what'll you shell it with?" snorted the dictator. "Why, you haven't an American ship within a thousand miles, and you know it."

"What I said," replied Hanna with frozen faced dignity, "was that if those people are not released by 6 o'clock I'll shell the town." And he marched out again.

Hanna knew perfectly well that there wasn't an American ship nearer than New Orleans, and he knew the dictator knew it. But he had something up his sleeve. He went back to his office and waited patiently meanwhile sending a clerk down to the water front to watch things.

The day wore on to mid-afternoon. Hanna was getting nervous. He must make good somehow. At last his messenger returned.

"Two British cruisers are coming into the harbor, sir," he reported.

"I knew they were due today," replied Hanna. "Now, you get word to the commander about what we've done here and tell him it's very important for him to come and see me."

At 5 o'clock that afternoon three very impressive officers in the uniform of the British navy came ashore and marched straight to the American consulate.

Hanna stonched out of his chair, shook hands all round and explained his scrape. The naval man wanted to know how he could best serve the necessities of the moment.

"Just go back on shipboard and begin clearing those vessels for action in the most ostentatious way you can," replied Hanna. "I'll do the rest."

As soon as the necessary time had elapsed to assure that these facts would have duly impressed themselves on his dictatorialship, Hanna started for the palace again. He didn't have to wait for admittance.

"Have the American and European prisoners been released?" he asked.

"They have not yet," replied the dictator.

"Then permit me to say that at 6 o'clock sharp as I mentioned this morning, I begin shelling this town."

"Where's your American ships?" persisted the dictator.

"The two British cruisers that have entered the harbor today are under my orders," replied the American consul.

"And we'll blow you and your town off this coast before morning if you don't perform. Do you get it?"

The dictator didn't know whether it was bluff or not, but at 5:50 o'clock the prisoners were turned loose.

Hanna got a promotion for the job.—New York Sun.

THREE TOASTS.

Giant Strides in Fixing the Boundaries of Our Country.

At a dinner party given by Americans residing in Paris some years ago there were proposed sundry toasts concerning not so much the past and present as the expected glories of the great American nation. In the general character of these toasts geographical considerations were very prominent, and the principal toast which seemed to occupy the minds of the speakers was the unprecedented bigness of our country.

"Here's to the United States," said the first speaker, "bounded on the north by British America, on the south by the gulf of Mexico, on the east by the Atlantic and on the west by the Pacific ocean."

"But," said the second speaker, "this is far too limited a view of the subject. In assigning our boundaries we must look to the great and glorious future, which is prescribed for us by the manifest destiny of the Anglo-Saxon race. Here's to the United States, bounded on the north by the north pole, on the south by the south pole, on the east by the rising sun and on the west by the setting sun."

Here the third speaker arose, a very serious gentleman from the far west. "If we are going," said this truly patriotic American, "to leave the history past and present and take our manifest destiny into account, why restrict ourselves within the narrow limits assigned by our fellow countryman who has just sat down? I give you the United States, bounded on the north by the aurora borealis, on the south by the procession of the equinoxes, on the east by primeval chaos and on the west by the day of judgment."—Philadelphia Press.

WORKED HIS WEAK POINTS.

Mr. Ape Had No Memory, but Lots of Curiosity and Cowardice.

"Curiosity and cowardice," said the one legged veteran, "are the chief characteristics of all monkeys and of most men. I worked in a zoo after the war. I was the keeper of the monkey house. My biggest charge was an ape the size of a twelve-year-old boy, and it was through his curiosity and cowardice that I used to manage him."

"We exercised this ape in the big room every day, but when we wanted him to go back to his cage he'd climb up to the roof of the big room, and even when food you couldn't tempt him down."

"So I would go to Jack Lover and take him gently by the arm and direct his attention in a quiet, mysterious manner to the dark passage under the steam pipes."

"Lover and I every day tiptoed to the pipes. We pretended to point out to each other some horrible, unknown creature in the passage, and we'd say: 'Look out! There he is! There he is!'"

"As we held each other's arms and bent over and peered into the darkness we'd hear very soon the delicate patter of small, active feet. The ape's curiosity had got the better of him. He crouched beside us. He, too, peered into the dark passage fearfully."

"Then suddenly Lover would shout: 'Look out! He's coming out! He's coming out!' And we'd scamper away in the direction of the ape's house. But the ape would be ahead of us. He'd rush into his house in a perfect whirlwind of excitement and terror. Then—click! We'd snap the door to on him, and he'd look very foolish."

"Every day we fooled the ape in this way. He was long, you see, on curiosity and cowardice, but very short on memory."—Chicago Herald.

How Hadley Proposed.

The way President Arthur Twining Hadley, according to a Yale legend, asked his prospective father-in-law for permission to marry his daughter was characteristic. At the time this gentleman, Linton B. Morris, occupied an anomalous political position. He had recently been elected governor of Connecticut, but his claim was disputed, and the state was in a political turmoil. "Mr. Morris," was the way Mr. Hadley approached the subject of his card. "I hope that I at least—may be permitted to—to call you—governor."—World's Work.

Speed of the Street Song.

One of the curious things about the popular song is the rapidity of its dissemination among the street children. Few of them can hear it at first hand at the music halls, yet long before the latest catchy tune has found its way to the barrel organs or Sunday newspaper you will hear it rendered with amazing accuracy by tiny boys and girls. It seems to travel like rumor through an East Indian bazaar.—London Standard.

His Kick.

"Why don't you go to the doctor with that cold?"

"Can't afford it."

"You buy a pair of shoes when you need them?"

"Yes, and that ends the transaction. The doctor keeps telling me to come again."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

FOR JUDGE OF COURT OF APPEALS.

We are authorized to announce ROLLIN HURT a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, in the Third district, subject to the action of the Democratic voters, expressed at the August primary.

Gov. Beckham, Democratic candidate for United States Senator will speak here this (Tuesday) afternoon at 1 o'clock. He arrived late last night from Lebanon, and a good portion of this forenoon he will spend in meeting his friends. People have already commenced to arrive, and before the hour of speaking the square will have the appearance of a bee hive, as admirers and supporters are here from several of the adjoining counties. Gov. Beckham will be introduced by Hon. J. F. Montgomery, a leading attorney of the bar, who is perfectly familiar with the life and character of the distinguished candidate.

Every Democrat in Adair and all adjacent counties are urged to vote for Rollin Hurt for Judge of the Court of Appeals on next Saturday. Things look good for Mr. Hurt, but no friend should fail to support him, thinking he will be nominated without his vote. There are twenty-two counties in the district, and it is only votes that count in the primary.

Do not be in position to say to Mr. Hurt after the primary, I did not attend the election because I knew you would be nominated. Give him your hearty support at the polls. Every vote will be appreciated.

If you know a friend of Mr. Hurt who thinks he will be too busy to attend the primary, urge him to lay aside his work for a few hours and go to the election. His vote will be needed.

Favorable reports of Mr. Hurt's canvass come from all over the district, but there must be no let up of work, and every friend must vote for him next Saturday.

Mr. Hurt is recognized throughout the State as a lawyer of ability, one who would make an ideal Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Vote next Saturday and vote for Hurt. By supporting him you honor one of Adair's most honorable and gifted men.

Remember that in voting in the primary you stamp in the square opposite the name of the candidate you are supporting. Do not stamp under a device.

ROTATION IN OFFICE DEMOCRATIC SAYS HOBSON'S OPPONENT

Judge Rollin Hurt, of Adair, Makes Strong Argument for Support in August Primary.

The Constitution is Against Life Tenure

Hardin County Man Has Been on Appellate Bench Sixteen Years and Has Drawn $80,000 in Salary.

Somerset, Ky., July 22.—Judge Rollin Hurt, of Adair county, who is making a vigorous campaign against Judge Hobson, of Hardin, for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Court of Appeals in this district, is presenting an argument in this end of the district that is drawing to him daily hundreds of supporters. He is basing his candidacy upon the fact that he has for thirty years been upon the stump in campaigns for the party, never opposed a Democrat for a nomination for office until now, and that the man he is running against at this time has been in office for sixteen years continuously and drawn eighty thousand dollars in salary from the public treasury of Kentucky. He says that to elect the Hardin county man for another term would mean the giving to him of a life tenure upon an office, which is prohibited by the Constitution of the State and unfair to the hosts of other men in every sense as well qualified to serve the people in this high office. He says that Judge Hobson should have followed a long line of precedents and retired at the end of his second term of eight years. In a speech here Judge Hurt said:

PRESENTS HIS OWN RECORD.

"I have been a Democrat all my life and have engaged in all battles for Democracy during my lifetime. I have never before been a candidate for a nomination for an office against any Democrat. I have helped many Democrats, but I have opposed none. I have never pushed aside or stood in the way of the desire of any Democrat to acquire any kind of office either elective or appointive. I had hoped that my fellow-Democrats would give me the nomination I seek without objection. My hopes have become facts except in the case of Judge Hobson. I had supposed that he, having held the office for sixteen years, and having received in salary therefor the sum of $80,000, would have been content to follow the example of so many other worthy and learned men, who have held the office, and retired at the end of two full terms. I am, however, to be disappointed in that. He is a candidate for another full term of eight years. If elected, this will mean for him twenty-four years in this office and salary to the total sum of $120,000. I am informed that he bases his excuse for attempting to break the precedent so long set in this State of a man retiring after having been elected to two terms of eight years each to this office, by claiming that he has made a good record. Whether a judge has made a good record is a matter of opinion about which men may differ. If he has made a good record, that was simply his duty, and it is no more than he ought to have made. It is what we expect of every judge and it is what he promises to do. To do less would not be honorable.

WOULD MEAN LIFE TENURE

"He also insists that he ought to be singled out from among his fellow-men and again given this office for such a length of time as you would naturally expect would be the length of his natural life, at his age, upon the ground that he has experienced the holding of this office for sixteen years past. If you would follow this argument to its logical conclusion, then no one else could ever hold this office as long as Judge Hobson lives, because at the end of another eight year's term his experience in holding the office would be so much greater than any other person possesses, that no one else but he could be considered. If merely having held the office is so valuable a prerequisite to being eligible to it again and again, then at his death there will be a 'calamity' sure enough because there would then be no one fit for it, as there would be no one living to succeed him, who had ever had any experience in holding it.

LET OTHERS GET EXPERIENCE

"I have, however, had some experience myself in matters of the law. I have been a regular practicing attorney for thirty years past, and every one knows that the lawyer who is continually engaged in the courts has as much experience as the judge of the court. When Judge Hobson was elected sixteen years ago he had never had any experience in being a judge. He was elected over two men who had large judicial experience, and yet I have never heard that Judge Hobson at that time conceded that either of his opponents was in any wise better fitted or better qualified for the office than himself. To carry his argument further means that he believes that when a man is elected to fill an office, then elections for that office should cease until the man dies. I have observed that when a man holds a good office for a long time and does not want to give it up, that he becomes profoundly impressed with the value of his experience in the office.

CONSTITUTION AGAINST IT.

"This doctrine of never changing the judges is a harking back to the time, when the people were not permitted to select their judges. Previous to 1850 the judges were appointed and held their office during life. This system became so nauseating to the people and so unsatisfactory that when they made the constitution of 1850 they destroyed that old remnant of monarchy and provided that from that time the Judges of the Court of Appeals should be elected for a term of eight years. Since that time forty-six different persons have been judges of the Court of Appeals. Only one of these worthy and learned men was ever elected to more than two full terms in this office. Only three of them ever held it for as much as sixteen years, and only two for more than sixteen years.

"Do you not think that it will be better to stick to the old Democratic doctrine of rotation in office? Judge Hobson illustrates his desire to hold on to office by stating that a man having a good team of horses which work well together, would not exchange one of them for an untried horse, which under some circumstances is true, but if one of his team was a sixteen year old horse, a man of judgment would not hesitate to exchange him for a well broken and well trained horse eight years of age."

ENCOURAGING.

The following from Washington, D. C., is not very good reading for the calamity howlers, but to those who want to see the country prosper, it is encouraging:

Even the most unscrupulous partisans in Congress have about abandoned hope of causing hard times, and thereby gaining political advantage, by spreading false reports as to actual business and industrial conditions. They have been smothered under evidence demonstrating that an industrial revival has begun and that the record crop guarantees general prosperity.

The St. Paul has released orders for 15,000 to 20,000 tons of rails to a Chicago district mill. The United States Steel Corporation has taken a contract for 5,000 tons of girder rails for New South Wales. The Wabash has practically closed for sixty locomotives. The Pittsburg, Shawmut & Northern, has bought 750 coal cars and the Atlantic Coast Line 100 logging cars. The American Bottle Company, of Newark, Ohio, has increased its shift from 900 to 1,200 men and is working in three shifts of eight hours each. At Greenville, Pa., the 7-inch mills of the Carnegie Steel Company have resumed operations. At the plants of the Steel Corporation and throughout the steel trade a steady resumption of business is reported.

Railroad earnings are picking up in the West; bank clearings are increasing; railway shops are being reopened on full time; The big copper companies of Michigan are increasing their shipments; throughout New England the textile trades are flourishing. At North Oxford, Conn., the Naragansett Worsted Mills have reopened for the first time in two years. In the Far West it is wool shearing season, and, despite the predictions that free wool would annihilate the American wool producer, the largest output of raw wool in history is predicted and good prices prevail.

These are but a few, a very few, of the facts. There is no need to add to them. They preach their own sermon.

I keep on hands a full stock of coffins, caskets, and robes. I also keep Metallic Caskets, and Steel Boxes and two hearses. Prompt service night or day. Residence Phone 29, office Phone 98.

VOTE FOR

ROLLIN HURT,

Every Democrat should lay aside his business long enough to visit his voting precinct on next Saturday, August 1st, and cast his ballot for our friend and neighbor, ROLLIN HURT, candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, by stamping in the square directly opposite Mr. Hurt's Name as illustrated below:

A LESSON ON THE FORD.

Teacher:—Johnnie, into how many classes are motor cars divided?
Johnnie:—Two, Fords and Automobiles.
Teacher:—Correct. What is a Ford?
Johnnie:—A Ford is a scientifically constructed four-wheel motor car intended as the safest and surest mode of travel at the lowest cost.
Teacher:—Does it fulfill the purpose for which it is intended?
Johnnie:—It does.
Teacher:—What can you say of a day's outing in a Ford?
Johnnie:—It consists of a continuous spin over hill and vale, full of pleasure, fun and satisfaction.
Teacher:—What are the necessities to take for a day's outing in a Ford?
Johnnie:—A little gasoline in a tank, a little oil in the engine and a little water in the radiator, and your wife and babies in the car.
Teacher:—Why are Fords more cheaply and satisfactorily operated than autos?
Johnnie:—Because they are mechanically perfect, free from cumbersome adjuncts; in other words they are simplicity simplified.
Teacher:—Now, what is an automobile?
Johnnie:—A car usually of heavy weight with big, expensive pneumatic tires, high rated horsepower, made up of storage batteries, magnetic clutches, a network of wiring, automatic pumps, feed, odometers, clocks, voltmeters, areometers, air pressure gauges, shock absorbers and other mechanical conglomerations intended as a medium of separating the rich from their cash.
Teacher:—Does it fulfill the purpose for which it was intended?
Johnnie:—It used to—but not now.
Teacher:—What can you say of a day's outing in an automobile?
Johnnie:—It consists of break-downs, bog-downs, lay-outs and blow-outs.
Teacher:—What are the necessities to take for a day's outing in an automobile?
Johnnie:—Four big extra casings, extra tubes, an electrician, a mechanic, an able-bodied chauffeur, a check-book and a good account with your local bank; and you will need to frequent gasoline stations, telephone stations and garages.
Teacher:—Why are automobiles more expensive to operate than Fords?
Johnnie:—For the same reason that it is impracticable to operate locomotives with pneumatic tires on dirt roads.

DEMOCRATS, RIGHT THE WRONG!

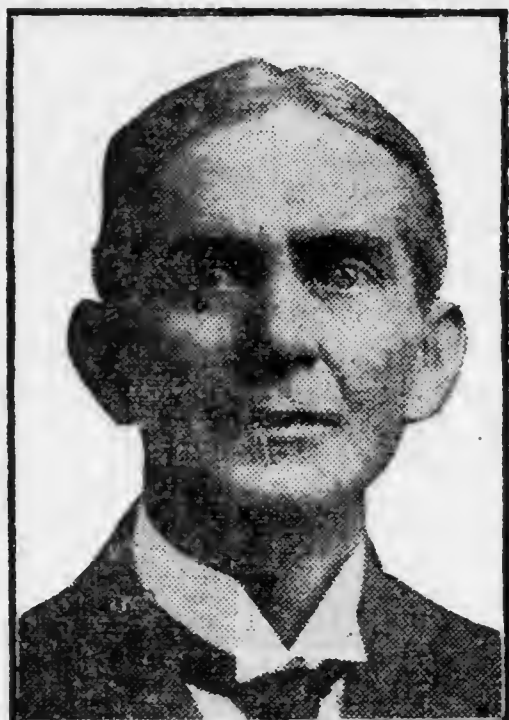

Wipe Out the Stain Placed Upon the Democratic Party of Kentucky by These Four Traitors and Their Whiskey and Beer Trust Bosses

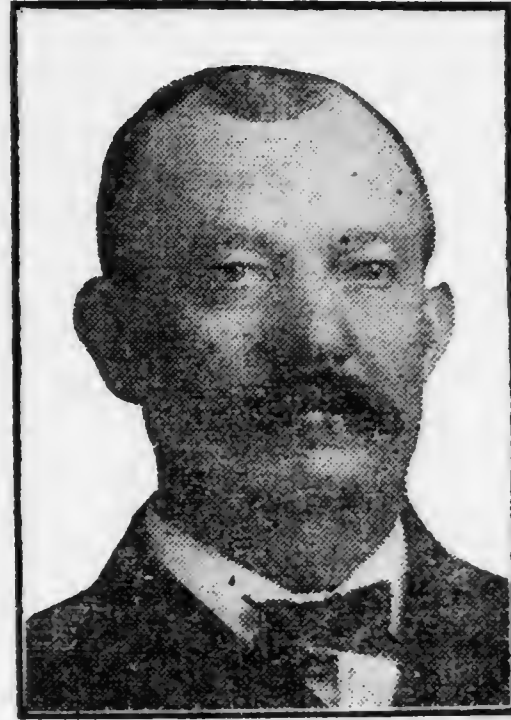

McNUTT

CHARLTON

MUELLER

Eight years ago the Democracy of Kentucky held a Primary Election to nominate a candidate for the United States Senate. More than 100,000 Democrats participated in that primary. Governor Beckham received a majority of the votes, carrying 91 of the 119 counties in the state. The Legislature which followed was Democratic in both branches, but Governor Beckham had enforced the law as to closing the saloons in Louisville on Sunday, and had stood for the County Unit Law, thereby incurring the enmity of the Whiskey Trust and the Beer Trust, and they sought his defeat in the Legislature. The above four men, elected as Democrats, betrayed their trust and voted for the Republican candidate, W. O. Bradley, thereby electing him to the Senate.

Will You Cast a Vote On August 1st to Endorse This Treachery? If not, Vote for J. C. W. Beckham, and Right the Wrong Done Him and the Democratic Party

Editor News:—

This leaves me at home slowly regaining my health. In a good many journeys I never suffered more on a train trip than on my homeward ride.

However, my personal troubles are of no interest to others, and with the statement that I am deeply grateful to J. E. Murrell, Prof. Tobias Huffaker and G. L. Wolford, Esq., for their kindness in every particular relative to my school. I'll add that a keen delight of my life was the prospect of teaching another school in my native county, while a keen disappointment resulted from my wretched state of health.

Allow me to say that I am under lasting obligations to J. C. Yates, that prince of good fellows and embodiment of Christian charity for a very substantial favor when in dire distress.

Allow me also to speak of Bill Turman, as he is affectionately called by his numerous friends. Like Yarrick, he is capable of setting the table in a roar by his quaint humor, and he has a fund of "hoss sense" in reserve. As to his hospitality, it is the genuine Kentucky article. I was an infliction on his hands for 45 hours, and it takes a man of heroic mould to endure such a visitation.

Then you should keep the fact before the people that there is no better man than your Uncle Jim Page. I hope to meet him again, but should this desire fail to be realized, I shall ever hold him in sacred memory.

When a man is sick he needs favors, and when he gets them he should be grateful.

Of course Rollin Hurt should be elected, and will be. With Jim Garnett Attorney General, Rollin Hurt, Judge, and the far-reaching fame of Adair county for ability, chivalry and hospitality, I'll ever say, "God bless our old Kentucky."

I had the pleasure of visiting Jesse V. White and family, who are still exponents of true Kentucky hospitality.

I also visited Leslie Johnson, who lives where I first saw the light. He is a model farmer, has an ideal home, and shows what energy, industry and perseverance can accomplish.

I also met Bascom Garnett, my old friend and schoolmate, and found him on easy street. Of course I visited Tobe and Bud Hurt, and found them the same cordial and prosperous friends.

The annals of my trip would not be complete did I not mention the fact that I was a sojourner with Bob Price, who has an elegant home, fine stock and enviable surroundings.

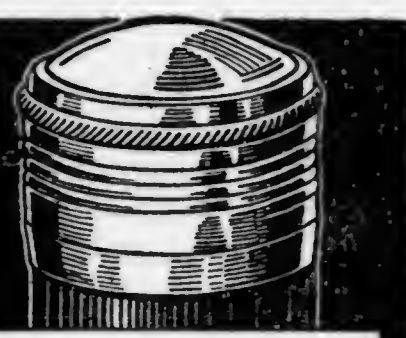

I also visited the families of Jim and Billy Frankum and Arthur Morrison, all friends of bygone days, as well as Ed and Zol Bennett, whom I met.

Also, I visited Long Bob Conover and Bill Rowe, and will ever hold families of each in fadeless memory.

Among others I met my friends and relatives—the family of Ad Bradshaw, deceased, and had a very pleasant time at their hospitable home. Also Hudson Conover and family, as well as Richard Dohoney and estimable wife. Richard and Hudson are two first-class farmers, who are also on easy street. I saw my ancient friend of color, Sam Ike Garnett, who is 95, and says he is all in. He can still shoot an old double-triggered rifle and shoulder a "hoss" if it is not too large. He might fall on a Percheron, but can amble with a Kentucky racer on his back.

I met Gen. James Garnett, but at first he failed to recognize my white hair and haggard features. Later, I met J. N. Page, the last of the ancient and honorable order known as whang doodle. A man from Crocus asked me if I was Tinker Tom Taylor, and I shot him on the spot. I was exonerated by a Coroner's jury, who declared deceased came to his death by the lawful visitation of God. I met Drs. B. F. and U. L. Taylor, also Bruce and "Long Tom." I need my six shooter, but have sent Tinker Tom a cross bow to kill his bugs. Tom, I am coming back to Missouri if I live, and I'd be really glad to see you.

Power of a Few Men.

There is no difficulty in accounting for the present condition of the country. These groups of men having their headquarters in New York have been shown, through interlocking directorates and interlocking control, to have the direction of approximately $22,000,000,000 of property and practically to have control over nearly every railway in the country and every one of the great industrials. Those men can forbid the railroads to buy rails, to buy steel cars, to buy frogs and switches, to buy lumber and to buy crossties; those men can put out of employment thousands and tens of thousands of men; those men can constrict credits in the districts of Representatives who are to be elected in the fall and in the States of Senators who are to be elected in the fall; they can by their power make hard times in districts where they want to defeat those in sympathy with a correction of those conditions, whether those candidates be Democrats or Progressive Republicans. From remarks in the Senate by Senator Owen, of Oklahoma

Pearl Making.

The growing scarcity of perfect pearls has induced the Japanese at many of their pearl fisheries to adopt a somewhat novel plan, which, if it succeeds should tend to increase enormously the world's pearl output.

Pearls are formed by little grains of sand and other substances which get into the oyster's shell and are a source of irritation to the little animal inside. He cannot turn out the intruding substance, so proceeds to cover it up with layers of lining material, until at length the object is encased and a round or pear shaped pearl is formed.

The Japanese are trying the forcible introduction of foreign substances into the oyster shells. They place live oysters before a fire, the heat of which induces them to slightly open their jaws; then a very tiny piece of wood is inserted with a little carbonate of lime. They are then placed once more in the oyster beds, and it is calculated that in about 12 months the oyster will make a pearl out of the substance introduced.

The result of the experiment is awaited with keen interest, as, owing to their comparative scarcity, pearls are now amongst the most valuable of precious stones, very large sums being paid for especially fine pear-shaped stones.

A Good Investment

W. D. Magli, a well known merchant of Whitewater, Wis., bought a stock of Chamberlain's medicine so as to be able to supply them to his customers. After receiving them he was himself taken sick and says that one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was worth more to him than the cost of his entire stock of these medicines. LINED WITH SPIDER WEBS.

One Has to Cut One's Way Through the Roads of Paraguay.

The roads of Paraguay are about five yards wide throughout, and the trees meet overhead at a height of some eighteen feet, thus forming a tunnel of very uniform dimensions. In the clear parts of the tunnel—that is, where it is not choked up with the giant nettle—it is full from roof to ground of enormous spiders' webs stretching clear across the road, the big trees usually being chosen as anchorages and the total clear span being thus more like eight yards than five.

The main cables or framework of the nets are composed of five or six strands of thick yellow web and are almost as strong as cotton thread. The rest of the net is made up of single and double strands of the same stout material, which is as sticky as it is strong. Every yard or so one of these nets extends across one's path, making it necessary to hold a cutlass or a fairly stout stick at arm's length in front as one walks.

The makers of these troublesome but picturesque obstructions are large, highly colored, gaudy looking spiders with bodies that look as if they were about to explode, they are so blown out and glossy.

At intervals in some more open space where the sky is visible one will notice a different kind of web, far more irregular in shape, but far larger than the others. Not content with the space available in the tunnel, these webs are stretched in complicated mazes from the ground to the very tops of the surrounding trees, with clear spans frequently twenty or thirty yards from one tree to another.

From these main cables smaller ones extend to the ground—a drop of fifteen or twenty yards—and the spaces in between are filled up with a mass of webs spun in all directions. —Wide World Magazine.

SIRIUS, THE DOG STAR.

It Was Given Its Canine Name by the Superstitious Egyptians.

The giant sun, the bright star Sirius, is now called the "dog star" from the very ancient and curious custom of personification. The great nations of remote antiquity personified every activity of nature—that is, compared them to living men or animals.

They didn't know a thing of any law of nature, so they said that motion is caused by living animals, because only animals have the inscrutable mysterious power of moving themselves. No wonder the ancients were astonished to see an animal move itself. And the wonder has vastly increased now, for the ablest scientific man cannot possibly see how an animal is able to move.

The overflowing of the Nile was the chief event in all of Egypt. Without this pouring of water over the land once each year, the valley would be a desert. The Egyptians at a certain period in their long history noticed that when they first saw the star Sirius early in the morning before sunrise the Nile river began to rise and pour over the banks. They personified Sirius as a watchdog, watching the sun and the Nile and the land of Egypt, its people, destiny and harvests.

The Egyptian name of the Nile was Siris, and the faithful dog watching in the sky was finally named Sirius. Centuries later their horrible religion taught that it was necessary to murder or sacrifice a dog to the star Sirius to secure its aid in growing grains and herds. This terrible habit of slaughtering animals to propitiate imaginary gods descended to the Greeks and Romans. The Romans named the stars near Sirius the constellation Canis Major (the great dog).—New York American.

Ministers and Ambassadors.

The first minister plenipotentiary from the United States to England was John Adams. Thomas Pinckney of South Carolina became the first minister to England under the constitution. The United States continued to be represented by ministers until 1803, when Thomas F. Bayard of Delaware became the first American ambassador to the court of St. James. The first British minister to the United States was George Hammond, who was appointed in 1791. Lord Poncefote became the first British ambassador to Washington in 1833.

The Peevish Child Needs a Laxative

It is natural for a child to laugh and play and when it sulks drowsily or cries you may depend on it something physical is the matter. If you see no evidences of a serious ailment you will not be wrong if you quietly give it a dose of mild laxative that evening on putting it to bed.

The remedy most generally recommended for this purpose is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which mothers throughout the country have been giving their children for a quarter of a century. Today thousands of families are using it where hundreds used it then, and there must be good reason for this word of mouth recommendation.

It is admittedly the perfect laxative for children, women, old people and all others who need a gentle bowel stimulant and not a violent salt, cathartic pill or doctored water. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will act gently, and when taken before retiring will bring complete satisfaction in the morning.

After a short use of this remedy all forms of outside aid can be dispensed with and nature will again act alone.

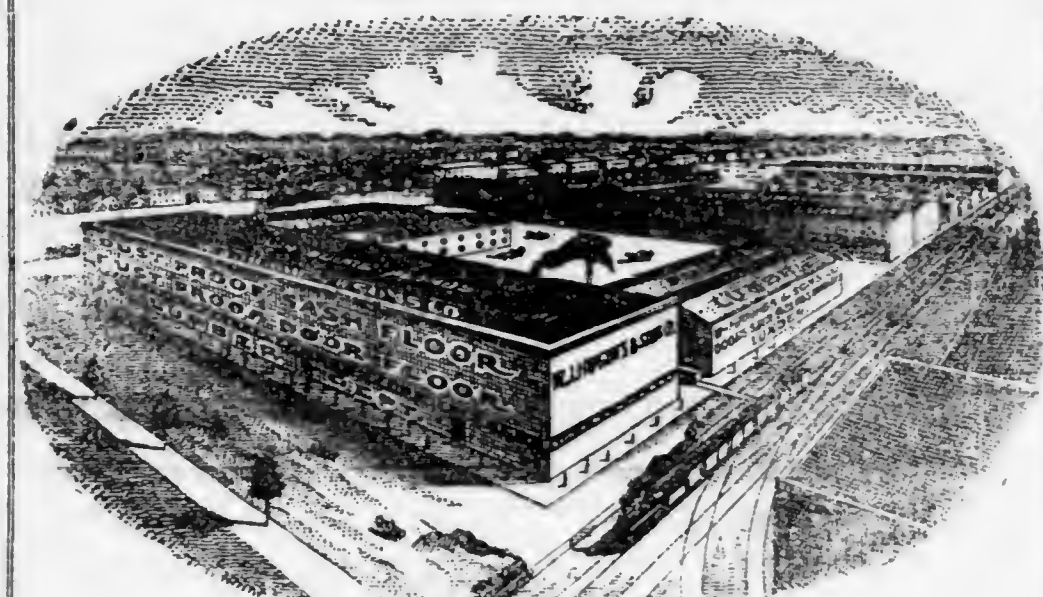

All classes of good American people keep it in the home for ill of the stomach, liver and bowels, and among the thousands who have written the doctor that they will never be without it are Mrs. J. W. Haynes, Brady, Ky., and Mrs. E. L. Weeks, 1744 W. 2nd St., Owensboro, Ky. A dose of it has saved many a person from a serious illness.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 408 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

We would be pleased to send the Daily State Journal, Frankfort, from now until the first of April for 50 cents. Or better still we will furnish the Adair County News, one year and the Daily State Journal until April last for $1.25. If you want to keep in touch with the doings at Frankfort while the Legislature is in session, you should have the State Journal.

COULD SCARCELY WALK ABOUT

And For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst. I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework."

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

I fattened up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

Cardui is purely vegetable and gentle-acting. Its ingredients have a mild, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, sallow cheeks, fresh and rosy.

Cardui has helped more than a million weak women, during the past 50 years. It will surely do for you, what it has done for them. Try Cardui today.

More Women Than Men.

The fact that in almost all civilized countries women outnumber men has been ascribed to the higher birthrate of girl babies; yet statistics show that 105 boys are born to every 100 girls. According to figures compiled by a European statistician, the girl has a better chance than the boy of attaining maturity.

He finds that from the third to the fifteenth year the mortality for both sexes is the same; from the fifteenth to the nineteenth year, the critical age for girls, the girl's chances are slightly better than the boy's; from the thirtieth year to the thirty-fifth the mortality among women is smaller than among men, and it continues smaller until the seventieth year. Then for a decade and a half the sexes once more have the same chance of survival, but above 85 years of age women again stand a much better chance than men.

To account for this difference the statistician points out that woman has greater resilience in shaking off diseases than man. It is true that the physical strength of man is greater than woman's, but a woman's power of endurance is more robust.

One reason for this is that woman possesses a finer perception of her power of endurance than a man, and when her perception warns her of fatigue she stops. A man does not stop until his power is exhausted. His nervous system is not as finely organized as a woman's, and as Mosso, the Italian physiologist, has pointed out, men and women are entirely dependent upon their nerves for caution not to over-exert. While it is true that women more easily contract many diseases, particularly nervous and mental diseases, than men, they overcome them with greater ease.

A Sensible Idea.

The farmers have been complaining of the candidates taking up so much of their time. The Fulton Leader says a foxy Georgian, realizing that the complaint is pretty well grounded, has hired an experienced farm hand to make the rounds with him. When he finds a farmer to whom he wants to talk for half an hour or so, he sends his farm hand into the field to take the farmer's place. Then he leads the farmer to a shady spot and delivers his little speech. The idea is a good one and the candidate deserves to be elected—and will no doubt, if the rest of his ideas are as sensible and practical.

CURE FOR OLD AGE

Easy and Pleasant and Costs but Little to Try It.

A GOOD WAY TO CHEAT DEATH.

The Prescription is to Mix Open Air and a Hobby, Shake Well and Take as Many Hours a Day or Night as Possible—The Cure in Real Life.

Old age can be cured. The prescription is a simple one. Mix open air and a hobby, shake well and take as many hours a day as possible. No one begins to age until he is bored, and the first gray hair comes when a man suddenly thinks to himself, "What's the use?" Then is the time when a hobby makes life interesting again.

There was an official on one of our great railroads who was retired at seventy. "He'll die now," said his friends kindly. But he didn't. Instead, he became interested in the wild flowers, and now he is too busy in looking for the rarest head orchid and trying to find a new station for the bar's tongue fern and tramping around in the woods and fields in all kinds of weather even to think of dying. Anyway, he would not have time until he's finished his monograph on the willows of the United States.

There is a woman in Baltimore, seventy-two years old, who years ago sought to forget a great sorrow by learning the butterflies. Her city home has become a rendezvous for entomologists all over the world and houses a famous collection. While her contemporaries are doing their lives away in caps and easy chairs she spends her summers in the mountains and her winters in Florida with a butterfly net. Twenty-one new species to identify are her contribution to the lepidoptera, and she plans to live until the last goal of an entomologist is reached—the using of her single initial species.

An octet of men in Philadelphia, all well past their threescore years, some in business and some foot loose, belong to the same ornithological society. They are afield every day of the year, rain or shine, to watch the ever changing bird life. In the spring each prepares migrant sheets showing the arrivals of the hundred odd migrants that pass through every place every year. There is great rivalry as to who shall score the most warblers or identify the largest number of birds in one day. At present writing the oldest of the eight holds a record of seventy-five different kinds of birds seen or heard in one day between dawn and dark—one for each year of his age and one to grow on.

A man in North Carolina by the sudden death of two of his family was left alone with but little money, no friends and the cheering dictum from his doctor that he had only a year to live. To while away the few months still left to him as well as to help out his household expenses he took up the study of edible mushrooms. At the end of a year in the open he notified his indignant physician that he had become too much interested in his hobby to confirm his diagnosis. In ten years he has discovered, classified and tested 170 kinds of edible mushrooms and has published a book which is one of the standard authorities for mushroom eaters of the world.

Another septuagenarian attributes his long life to the stars. Confined to bed during the day, he sought the open air at night and began to study the changing constellations and the perplexing planets. Then he found that with an opera glass he could detect their colors and revealed in the blue light of Vega, the green glare of Sirius, the rose red of Aldebaran, the flame color of Betelgeuse and the strange shades of other gleaming sky kings. Finally he bought a small telescope. Now, at seventy, he has published a monograph on the double stars, besides a quaint little star guide that has interested thousands in his hobby.

None of the nature studies requires much money or time. A cheap illustrated guidebook, an opera glass and, possibly, some walks and talks with an expert, and you will learn almost immediately to identify a score or more of flowers, or birds, or constellations of mushrooms, and you will have found a hobby on which you may ride away from death.

Try it, young men, lest you grow old. Try it, old men, before you grow tired. Escape into the open from these narrow indoor days and learn the way to share the wild folk dwell. In their and you will find the help of the hills and hope wide as the world, and strength, and youth, and happiness. Try it.—Samuel Scoville, Jr., in Lippitt's.

Across the Atlantic.

The narrowest part of the Atlantic is between Brazil and Guinea, where the ocean is only about 1,800 miles wide. From Newfoundland to Ireland, the narrowest breadth north of the equator, is nearly twice as far. From New York to the nearest point of France is nearly three times as far.

The Lesser Evil.

It's Mr. Boreleigh I think I'll send in word I'm out. "Won't the still, small voice reproach you?" "Oh, yes, but I'd rather listen to the still, small voice than to Mr. Boreleigh's."—Boston Transcript.

The most deadly foe to success in the future is the inertia which springs from self-satisfaction in the success of the past.

PEPPERY COMPOSERS.

Masters of Music Who Had Nice Temperaments of Their Own.

Even in the presence of his royal pupils Handel would sometimes fly into most violent passions.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Handel," a court attendant said reprovingly on one such occasion. "You should show more respect to her royal highness!"

"Royal highness!" snorted the musician contemptuously. "Bah! De respect is due to me! There are many brincesses, but only one Handel!"

On another occasion, when George I. sent a message summoning him to an interview, he returned this answer: "Dell his majesty be bust wald. By tibe is bore imbordant dan bis!"

Viotti, the famous French musician of the eighteenth century, had an equal contempt for royalty and an exaggerated opinion of himself, as the following story shows: One day he was summoned to Versailles to play before Marie Antoinette and the court. The performance had begun; the opening bars of his favorite solo commanded breathless attention, when a cry was heard:

"Place for Mgr. the Comte d'Artois!" At the sound Viotti immediately ceased playing, cast an indignant glance at his audience, placed his violin under his arm and walked out of the place.

When Marie Antoinette once inquired of Gluck how his new opera was progressing he answered, "Madame, it is nearly finished, and I assure you it will be superb," a conceit which was rivaled by that of Meyerbeer, who, when a friend declared that if anything better could be composed than one of his rival operas he would dance on his head, answered, "If that is so I should advise you to start practicing at once, for I have just commenced the fourth act of 'The Huguenots!'"

Even Haydn, usually the most modest of men, showed at times that he had as good an opinion of his own merits as any of his admirers. On one occasion, when a friend said to him of his "Salomon" symphonies, "Sir, I am strongly of opinion that you will never surpass these wonderful symphonies," he answered placidly, "No; I never mean to attempt the impossible!"

CURIOUS CARD TRICK.

It Deals With Odd Numbers, and the Explanation is a Mystery.

There is a puzzle which may be performed with any odd number of objects, playing cards being usually employed, and which any one can do, but no one seems able to explain the reason for it. Let us suppose the number selected to be twenty-seven cards, although fifteen or twenty-one would do just as well.

After having them shuffled hold them in the left hand face upward and then deal them face upward one at a time in three piles so that the fourth card comes on the first and the fifth on the top of the second and so on until you have three piles of nine cards each.

Request any person who is watching you to make a silent note of any card he pleases, and when you have finished dealing to tell you in which pile the card lies. By picking up the three piles again one at a time as before, the noted card will reappear. Ask in which pile it came that time and place that pile in the middle as before.

Upon dealing the cards into three piles for the third time note carefully the card that comes in the middle of each pile. With twenty-seven there will be nine in each pile and the fifth will be the middle card. Now when the person who selected the card names the pile in which his card comes you will know it was the middle card of that pile. With this knowledge in your possession you can finish the trick in any manner you please.

This is only a statement of results, but what is the explanation or reason for it? What is the rule that makes it always come out right, regardless of the number of objects used, so that it is odd?—New York Sun.

Where the Fault Lay.

A newspaper man tells of a friend who edited, with more or less success, a paper in a small town. That he was somewhat discouraged by the lack of interest shown in his journal was evidenced by this notice which one afternoon appeared on the editorial page:

"Burglars entered our house last night. To the everlasting shame of the community for whose welfare we have labored, be it said, they got nothing."—Harper's Magazine.

Bewildered Him.

"I say, Weggie, I'm in an awful mess. Miss Stuart means to sue me for 'breach of promise' or somethin' howwid like that?"

"Weally?"

"Yaas. I said I was awfully sorry not to ask her to marry me, but dad would cut me off if I did, and all she said was, 'You needn't imagine I'm the kind of a girl that accepts an apology for a man.'"—New York Tribune.

Athletic Vocalization.

"Is a ventriloquist a person who throws his voice?" asked Mr. Lobrow.

"So to speak."

"Well, we've got one next door to us. She hasn't thrown it yet, but she is giving it a terrible struggle."—Washington Star.

Gradyville.

We are having some very warm weather at this time.

Our farmers are complaining of dry weather again.

Thos. Dowell spent a few days on his farm in Green county last week.

Miss Carrie Grissom, of Columbia, spent several days of last week in our city with her relatives.

James Q. Diddle spent a day or so in Greensburg last week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Morrison and daughter spent last Saturday and Sunday in Columbia.

Miss Nell Hindman, of Columbia, visited Miss Maude Wilmore last Saturday night and Sunday.

Dr. Bowling, the well-known optician of Camner, spent a few days in our city last week and had a fine business.

J. A. Diddle is looking after his farming interest in Logan county this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Walker, Mrs. G. F. Stults and Mrs. Lee Grissom, of Columbia, attended services here last Sunday.

Mr. W. C. Hill, the well-known traveling man for Pratts Stock Food, is spending a few days in in Louisville this week. While there he has an idea of buying an auto. He wants the machine to make his territory. Mr. Hill thinks it will be a time saver.

The Weed base ball team crossed bats with the Pickett Chapel team last Saturday, which resulted in a great victory for the Weed team. A few weeks ago the same team played the Cool Spring team which also resulted in favor of Weed. The boys down that way will have to learn how to play before tackling our "Hill Billies" again.

Messrs. Robert and Eugene Wethington, Mr. John Bennett and Ollie Willis left in an auto for Clementsville and Columbia last Friday afternoon. They expect to return Sunday afternoon.

On last Friday afternoon, we were very agreeably surprised to shake the hands of our friends Mr. and Mrs. Guy Breeding, of Texas, formerly of this county. Mr. Breeding informed us that they had just arrived. Had been on the road only twelve days and made the trip through in an auto. Mr. and Mrs. Breeding are looking well and say they had a delightful time on the road, while making the trip. They expect to remain here about two or three months.

The protracted services here conducted by Rev. E. W. Coakley and the pastor continues to grow in interest. Up to this time there has been several conversions and the church as well as the community greatly revived.

Uncle Lewis Moore, one of the oldest citizens of Weed, spent a few days here last week, attending services and visiting Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Sparks.

Mr. Ben Roach, wife and daughter, of McGregor, Texas, spent a few days here last week visiting Mr. Warren Sexton and family. While here Mr. Roach called in to see us and informed us that all of the Kentucky people that are located near McGregor are getting along nicely, with plenty of this worlds goods to make life happy. He also informed us that he had been living in Texas for the last twenty-four years. and had made six visit to Kentucky during these years. Mr. Roach is and all around good fellow and has made a success in his life. We are always glad to meet with our old Kentucky people and to know that they made a success in life. They will remain here for a month or so.

Died, at Wichita Texas, a few days ago, Mrs. Wm. Singleton, with a complication of diseases. She was a resident of this community, being a daughter of William Gowen, who died a number of years ago. She is also a sister of Squire Tom Gowen, of this community, and Mrs. Joseph Viers, of the Cool Springs community.
